

RONALD RUTHERFORD-TRICHE is Branch Chief, Qualified Plans Branch 2, in the IRS Office of Chief Counsel in Washington, DC. Mr. Rutherford-Triche focuses on regulatory issues affecting employers' qualified plans. Prior to joining the IRS Office of Chief Counsel in 2017, Mr. Rutherford-Triche spent over 20 years practicing in the field of employee benefits law. Mr. Rutherford-Triche received his bachelor's degree from McNeese State University and his law degree from the Tulane University School of Law.